the cross linguistic differences documented in studies of relative clause attachment offer an invaluable opportunity to examine a particular aspect of bilingual sentence processing do bilinguals process their two languages as if they were monolingual speakers of each this volume provides a review of existing research on relative clause attachment showing that speakers of languages like english attach relative clauses differently than do speakers of languages like spanish fernández reports the findings of an investigation with monolinguals and bilinguals tested using speeded on line and unspeeded off line methodology with materials in both english and spanish the experiments reveal similarities across the groups when the procedure is speeded but differences with unspeeded questionnaires the monolinguals replicate the standard cross linguistic differences while bilinguals have language independent preferences determined by language dominance bilinguals process stimuli in
