the south korean warship cheonan was sunk in mysterious circumstances on 26 march 2010 the remarkable events that followed are analysed by tim beal and woven into a larger study of the increasingly volatile relations between north and south korea and us concern about the rise of china south korea s stance towards the north has hardened significantly since the new conservative government came to power beal argues that the south moved quickly to use the sinking of the cheonan to put international pressure on the north even before the cause of the sinking had been established the us followed suit by attempting to pressurise china into condemning north korea the media reports at the time presented an open and shut case of unprovoked north korean aggression but the evidence points towards the accidental triggering of a south korean mine as the cause and south korean fabrication to incriminate the north with the south bent on forcing the fall of the north's regime with us help and china unlikely to stand idly by this book offers an essential guide to the key factors behind the crisis and possible solutions

This book revisits the debate over manners and morals that raged in France, Britain and the United States in the late nineteenth century. It was in essence a debate about gender and sexuality, and one of the foremost figures in the transnational discussions was the French writer and lecturer Paul Blouet alias Max O'Rell (1847–1903). Although largely forgotten today, O'Rell deserves remembrance as a major phenomenon of the fin de siècle publishing and entertainment world. A Frenchman living in England but catering primarily to the American market, he disseminated national and gender stereotypes in an unprecedented way, admired for the wit deployed in his lectures and his many best-selling books. He is a colorful exemplar of the many bourgeois commentators, male and female, most of them with mainstream political, social and cultural views, who engaged in these discussions, producing dense webs of assertion and opinion across countries and even continents: the elegant French salonnière, the independent but trustworthy English girl, the bitter American spinster activist meddling in public affairs. These are just a few examples of the many caricatural representations of women thrust into the debate. Max O'Rell and his fellow observers commented on women's position in family and society, their partnership in the couple, their education, their sexual fulfilment, their right to paid work, aspects of social etiquette, feminism, domestic abuse, adultery and prostitution. There were frequent disagreements and sometimes hostile exchanges, but this analysis of the debate reveals a fundamentally common outlook among its participants: an agreement on patriarchy as the foundation of bourgeois society and on the necessity to confine women in carefully stereotyped roles.
