tell me something i don t know is a collection of original dialogues in epistemology suitable for student readers but also of interest to experts familiar problems theories and arguments are explored second order knowledge epistemic closure the preface paradox skepticism pragmatic encroachment the gettier problem and more new ideas on each of these issues are also offered defended and critiqued often in humorous and entertaining ways the second edition of jack crumley s an introduction to epistemology strikes a balance between the many issues that engage contemporary epistemologists and the contributions of the major historical figures he shows not only how philosophers such as descartes hume locke berkeley and kant foreground the contemporary debates but also why they deserve consideration on their own terms a substantial revision of the first edition the second edition is even more accessible to students the new edition includes recent work on contextualism evidentialism externalism and internalism and perceptual realism as well the chapter on coherence theory is substantially revised reflecting recent developments in that area new to this second edition is a chapter on feminist epistemology which includes discussions of major positions and themes such as feminist empiricism feminist standpoint epistemology postmodern epistemology and feminist critiques of objectivity it presents the important contributions of philosophers such as sandra harding helen longino genevieve lloyd and others each chapter ends with a list of study questions and readings for further study this is the first volume dedicated solely to the topic of epistemological disjunctivism the original essays in this volume written by leading and up and coming scholars on the topic are divided into three thematic sections the first set of chapters addresses the historical background of epistemological disjunctivism it features essays on ancient epistemology immanuel kant j l austin edmund husserl and ludwig wittgenstein the second section tackles a number contemporary issues related to epistemological disjunctivism including its relationship with perceptual disjunctivism radical skepticism and reasons for belief finally the third group of essays extends the framework of epistemological disjunctivism to other forms of knowledge such as testimonial knowledge knowledge of other minds and self knowledge epistemological disjunctivism is a timely collection that engages with an increasingly important topic in philosophy it will appeal to researches and graduate students working in epistemology philosophy of mind and philosophy of perception what is knowledge where does it come from what kinds of knowledge are there can we know anything at all this lucid and engaging introduction grapples with these central questions in the theory of knowledge offering a clear non partisan view of the main themes of epistemology both traditional issues and contemporary ideas are discussed in sixteen easily digestible chapters each of which conclude with a useful summary of the main ideas discussed study questions annotated further reading and a guide to internet resources each chapter also features text boxes providing bite sized summaries of key concepts and major philosophers and clear and interesting examples are used throughout the book concludes with an annotated guide to general introductions to epistemology a glossary of key terms and a summary of the main examples used in epistemology this an ideal first textbook in the theory of knowledge for undergraduates coming to philosophy for the first time the third edition has been revised and updated throughout and features two new chapters on religious knowledge and scientific knowledge as part of a whole new section on what kinds of knowledge there are in addition the text as a whole has been refreshed to keep it up to date with current developments justification as ignorance offers an original account of epistemic justification as both non factive and luminous vindicating core internalist intuitions without construing justification as an internal condition knowable by reflection alone sven rosenkranz conceives of justification in its doxastic and propositional varieties as a kind of epistemic possibility of knowing and of being in a position to know his account contrasts with recent alternative views that characterize justification in terms of the metaphysical possibility of knowing instead he develops a suitable non normal multi modal epistemic logic for knowledge and being in a position to know that respects the finding that these notions create hyperintensional contexts he also defends his conception of justification against well known anti luminosity arguments shows that the account allows for fruitful applications and principled solutions to the lottery and preface paradoxes and provides a metaphysics of justification and its varying degrees of strength that is compatible with core assumptions of the knowledge first approach and disjunctivist conceptions of mental states
