occupation centred practice with children remains the only occupational therapy book which supports the development and implementation of occupation centred practice with children drawing on the latest occupational therapy theory and research this new edition has been fully updated throughout and includes new chapters on occupational transitions for children and young people assessing children s occupations and participation intervention within schools the arts and children's occupational opportunities as well as using animals to support children's occupational engagement. Key features written by an international expert team of contributors: each chapter begins with preliminary questions to assist with consideration of current knowledge and then reflection questions at the conclusion to allow revision of key content in order to support independent learning. Highly practical with a range of case studies, key point summaries, reflective questions, best practice guidelines and a range of tools, interventions and techniques to aid applications to practice. A new appendix outlining all the assessments referred to in the book has now been included. Occupation-centred practice with children is a practical, theoretically grounded and evidence-based guide to contemporary occupational therapy practice and is important reading for all occupational therapy students and therapists wishing to make a real difference to children and their families' lives.

Provides information on 2,500 jobs organized within major career clusters and descriptions of each job.

This practical guide for occupational therapists introduces a tried and tested method for moving from assessment to intervention by formulating plans and measurable goals using the influential model of human occupation. Section 1 introduces the concept of formulation where it comes from, what it involves, why it is important and how assessment information can be guided by theoretical frameworks and organised into a flowing narrative. Section 2 provides specific instructions for constructing occupational formulations using the model of human occupation. In addition, a radically new way for creating aspirational goals is introduced based on a simple acronym which will enable occupational therapists to measure sustained changes rather than single actions. Section 3 presents 20 example occupational formulations and goals from a wide range of mental health, physical health and learning disability settings as well as a prison service and services for homeless people and asylum seekers. Designed for practising occupational therapists and occupational students, this is an essential introduction for all those who are looking for an effective way to formulate plans and goals based on the model of human occupation.

This practical text supports occupational therapy students and educators as they navigate the opportunities and challenges of practice learning, reflecting contemporary and innovative occupation-centred practice. It sets out a step-by-step guide to using this knowledge across a range of settings. The clear structure, templates, examples and strategies it presents demonstrate how contemporary theory can be used to inform and guide practice. Implementing occupation-centred practice is an essential resource for occupational therapy students during their placement preparation and throughout their placement. It also serves as a tool for practice educators who are looking for assistance in structuring learning for their students.
