boredom is a ubiquitous feature of modern life endured by everyone it is both cause and effect of modernity and of situations spaces and surroundings as such this book argues boredom shares an intimate relationship with architecture one that has been seldom explored in architectural history and theory boredom architecture and spatial experience investigates that relationship showing how an understanding of boredom affords us a new way of looking at and understanding the modern experience it reconstructs a series of episodes in architectural history from the 19th century to the present to survey how boredom became a normalized component of the everyday how it infiltrated into the production and reception of architecture and how it serves to diagnose moments of crisis in the continuous transformations of the built environment erudite and innovative the work moves deftly from architectural theory and philosophy to literature and psychology to make its case combining archival material scholarly sources and illuminating excerpts from conversations with practitioners and thinkers including charles jencks rem koolhaas sylvia lavin and jorge silvetti it reveals the complexity and importance of boredom in architecture architecture has long been understood as a cultural discipline able to articulate the human condition and lift the human spirit yet the spirituality of architecture is rarely directly addressed in academic scholarship the seventeen chapters provide a diverse range of perspectives grouped according to topical themes being in the world sacred secular and the contemporary condition symbolic engagements sacred landscapes and spirituality and the designed environment even though the authors approach the subject from a range of disciplines and theoretical positions all share interests in the need to rediscover redefine or reclaim the sacred in everyday experience scholarly analysis and design
