wallace stevens and the apocalyptic mode focuses on stevens s doubled stance toward the apocalyptic past his simultaneous use of and resistance to apocalyptic language two contradictory forces that have generated two dominant and incompatible interpretations of his work the book explores the often paradoxical roles of apocalyptic and antiapocalyptic rhetoric in modernist and postmodernist poetry and theory particularly as these emerge in the poetry of stevens and jorie graham this study begins with an examination of the textual and generic issues surrounding apocalypse culminating in the idea of apocalyptic language as a form of discursive mastery over the mayhem of events woodland provides an informative religious historical discussion of apocalypse and engaging with such critics as parker derrida and fowler sets forth the paradoxes and complexities that eventually challenge any clear dualities between apocalyptic and antiapocalyptic thinking woodland then examines some of stevens s wartime essays and poems and describes stevens s efforts to salvage a sense of self and poetic vitality in a time of war as well as his resistance to the possibility of cultural collapse woodland discusses the major postwar poems credences of summer and the auroras of autumn in separate chapters examining the interaction of anti apocalyptic modes with respectively pastoral and elegy the final chapter offers a perspective on stevens s place in literary history by examining the work of a contemporary poet jorie graham whose poetry quotes from stevens s oeuvre and shows other marks of his influence woodland focuses on graham s 1997 collection the errancy and shows that her antiapocalyptic poetry involves a very different attitude toward the possibility of a radical break with a particular cultural or aesthetic stance wallace stevens and the apocalyptic mode offering a new understanding of stevens s position in literary history will greatly interest literary scholars and students often considered america s greatest twentieth century poet wallace stevens is without a doubt the anglo modernist poet whose work has been most scrutinized from a philosophical perspective wallace stevens and the limits of reading and writing both synthesizes and extends the critical understanding of stevens s poetry in this respect arguing that a concern with the establishment and transgression of limits goes to the heart of this poet s work bart eekhout traces both the limits of stevens s poetry and the limits of writing as they are explored by that poetry stevens s work has been interpreted so variously and contradictorily that critics must first address the question of limits to the poetry s signifying potential before they can attempt to deepen our appreciation of it in the first half of this book the limits of appropriating and contextualizing stevens s the snow man in particular are investigated eekhout does not undertake this reading with the negative purpose of disputing earlier interpretations but with the more positive intention of identifying the intrinsic qualities of the poetry that have been responsible for the remarkable amount of critical attention it has received this book offers a wide ranging display of innovative critical perspectives on the poetry of the american modernist wallace stevens the relationship between literature and religion is one of the most groundbreaking and challenging areas of romantic studies covering the entire field of romanticism from its eighteenth century origins in the writing of william cowper and its proleptic stirrings in paradise lost to late twentieth century manifestations in the work of wallace stevens the essays in this timely volume explore subjects such as romantic attitudes towards creativity and its relation to suffering and religious apprehension the allure of the veiled and the figure of the monk in gothic and romantic writing miltonic light and inspiration in the work of blake wordsworth shelley and keats the relationship between southey s and coleridge s anti catholicism and definitions of religious faith in the romantic period the stammering of romantic attempts to figure the ineffable the emergence of a feminised christianity and a gendered sublime the development of calvinism and its role in contemporary religious controversies its primary focus is the canonical romantic poets with a particular emphasis on byron whose work is most in need of critical re evaluation given its engagement with the christian and islamic worlds and its critique of totalising religious and secular readings the collection is an original and much needed intervention in romantic studies bringing together the contextual awareness of recent historicist scholarship with the newly awakened interest in matters of form and an appreciation of the challenges of postmodern theory
