one of the great intellectual battles of modern times is between evolution and religion until now they have been considered completely irreconcilable theories of origin and existence david sloan wilson s darwin s cathedral takes the radical step of joining the two in the process proposing an evolutionary theory of religion that shakes both evolutionary biology and social theory at their foundations the key argues wilson is to think of society as an organism an old idea that has received new life based on recent developments in evolutionary biology if society is an organism can we then think of morality and religion as biologically and culturally evolved adaptations that enable human groups to function as single units rather than mere collections of individuals wilson brings a variety of evidence to bear on this question from both the biological and social sciences from calvinism in sixteenth century geneva to balinese water temples from hunter gatherer societies to urban america wilson demonstrates how religions have enabled people to achieve by collective action what they never could do alone he also includes a chapter considering forgiveness from an evolutionary perspective and concludes by discussing how all social organizations including science could benefit by incorporating elements of religion religious believers often compare their communities to single organisms and even to insect colonies astoundingly wilson shows that they might be literally correct intended for any educated reader darwin s cathedral will change forever the way we view the relations among evolution religion and human society in the year 2020 what we used to think that our habits have been profoundly disrupted lockdown still represents an unprecedented experience for all of those who went through it since it radically affected our freedom of movement and social interaction that used to make up our everyday lives some people believe that once the pandemic ends nothing will be the same others think that once the virus becomes weaker or a vaccine is at our disposal and the fear is diminished everything will go back to normal because the mechanism of habit is in many ways similar to the mechanisms of nature reiterating the uniformity of its functioning who is right then both positions perhaps when philosophers addressed the issue of customs namely collective habits generally emphasized the caution required when it comes to changing them and if we look back on history could pandemics affect shared habits in specific territories as ultimately generated in reaction to other natural risks and or to their threats
