A miracle is defined as a highly improbable or extraordinary accomplishment. The story of the algebra program at Jeb Stuart High School in Fairfax, Virginia, qualifies for such a designation over a period of fifteen years. A series of ambitious, no-cost innovations which challenged the prevailing status quo in math education led to a set of academic accomplishments that were indeed improbable and extraordinary. This miracle was achieved by a high-poverty, ethnically diverse student body that was unique at the time but is now representative of schools found throughout the U.S. For everyone touched by education—from parents and students to teachers and administrators—the algebra miracle will provide insights into the complexity of finding a low-cost formula for academic success in the tight budgetary times of the 21st century. This story serves as a model of what can be accomplished when a dedicated school staff commits its time, energy, and creativity to the needs of their students.

2009 Notable Education Book. American School Board Journal. The Essential School Board Book highlights effective practices that are common to high-functioning boards around the country, boards that are working successfully with their superintendents and communities to improve teaching and learning. Amid today's heightened attention on student achievement, school boards find their responsibilities intensified and transformed. In this age of accountability, all school boards need to consider how best to maintain a focus on student achievement and promote it through district and school policies. In a highly readable and accessible fashion, the book summarizes research linking school board practices to student achievement. It features stories of sixteen diverse boards around the country, elected and appointed, rural, urban, and suburban, and the policies and procedures they have employed to enhance student achievement. Also included is a resource section for those investigating successful school board policies and practices in more depth.
