the author criticises neo darwinism and suggests replacing it with the nonrandom evolutionary hypothesis nreh p 209

through a blend of eastern mysticism and western psychology the multi billion dollar mystical marketplace promises to meet man's spiritual and material needs even regular church going faithful who once opposed the new age movement have become enthusiastic participants in this marriage of science and religion

this book provides a philosophical assessment of the idea of personhood advanced in popular self help literature it also traces within academic philosophy and philosophical scholarship a self help culture where the self is brought forth as an object of improvement and a key to meaning progress and profundity unlike other academic treatments of the topic of self help this book is not primarily concerned with providing a critique of popular self help and self transformative practices rather it is concerned with how they work to shape contemporary forms and ideals of moral personhood and are conducive to moral renegotiation and change the book consists of two parts with somewhat different argumentative strategies part 1 consists of an overview and reassessment of popular self help literature and its sociological and journalistic critics written from a moral philosophical perspective part 2 opens with discussion of the current attraction among a range of philosophers to self transformative themes the chapters assess the strand of self transformative philosophy found in the work of ludwig wittgenstein michel foucault pierre hadot stanley cavell and iris murdoch finally the book concludes with a discussion of the theme of social change and moral renegotiation in contemporary societies which is a central but underestimated undercurrent in discussions on contemporary self transformative practices the book s dual perspective on both popular self help and self transformative currents in philosophy enables a cultural and moral philosophical analysis of contemporary ethical ideals of personhood as well as reflection on the literatures available for its development the making of the good person will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working in moral philosophy history of philosophy psychology sociology and literary studies to call something modern is to assert something fundamental about the social cultural economic and technical sophistication of that thing over and against what has come before a cultural history of theatre in the modern age provides an interdisciplinary overview of theatre and performance in their social and material contexts from the late 19th century through the early 2000s emphasizing key developments and trends that both exemplify and trouble the various meanings of the term modern and the identity of modernist theatre and performance highly illustrated with 40 images the ten chapters each take a different theme as their focus institutional frameworks social functions sexuality and gender the environment of theatre circulation interpretations communities of production repertoire and genres technologies of performance and knowledge transmission a contemporary evaluation of bergelson and his works examining yiddish literature jewish culture and modernism david bergelson 1884 1952 emerged as a major literary figure who wrote in yiddish before wwi he was one of the founders of the kiev kultur lige and his work was at the center of the yiddish speaking world of the time he was well known for creating characters who often felt the painful after effects of the past and the clumsiness of bodies stumbling through the actions of daily life as their familiar worlds crumbled around them in this contemporary assessment of bergelson and his fiction harriet murav focuses on untimeliness anachronism and warped temporality as an emotional sensory existential and historical background to bergleson s work and world murav grapples with the great modern theorists of time and memory especially henri bergson sigmund freud and walter benjamin to present bergelson as an integral part of the philosophical and artistic experiments political and technological changes and cultural context of russian and yiddish modernism that marked his age as a comparative and interdisciplinary study of yiddish literature and jewish culture this work adds a new ethnic dimension to understandings of the turbulent birth of modernism harriet murav treats bergelson with the care and sincerity that literary critics have shown other important writers this is a masterpiece of literary scholarship that will be sure to transform not only how people read bergelson and who chooses to read bergelson but how readers engage with the entire concept of modernism itself david shneer author of yiddish and the creation of soviet jewish culture 1918 1930 the conflict within liberal democracy is now between the pursuit of selfish interest and a people increasingly fractured by economic and cultural differences dallmayr sets out to rescue democracy as a shared public and post liberal regime drawing on a wide range of contemporary political religious and secular thought dallmayr charts a possible path to a liberal socialism that is devoid of egalitarian imperatives and a private sphere free from acquisitiveness
