the imaginative literature of african and afro american authors writing in western languages has long been seen as standing outside the western literary canon in fact however black literature not only has a complex formal relation to that canon but tends to revise and reflect western rhetorical strategies even more than it echoes black vernacular literary forms this book first published in 1984 is divided into two sections thus clarifying the nature of black literary theory on the one hand and the features of black literary practice on the other rather than merely applying contemporary western theory to black literature these critics instead challenge and redefine the theory in order to make fresh stimulating comments not only on black criticism and literature but also on the general state of criticism today in black literature and humanism in latin america richard l jackson explores literary americanism through writings of black hispanic authors such as carlos guillermo wilson quince duncan and nelson estupi án bass that in many ways provide a microcosm for the larger literature jackson traces the roots of afro hispanic literature from the early twentieth century afrocriollo movement the harlem renaissance of latin america to the fiction and criticism of black latin americans today black humanism arose from afro hispanics self discovery of their own humanity and the realization that over the years they had become not only defenders of threatened cultures but also symbolic guardians of humanity this humanist tradition had enabled writers such as manuel zapata olivella to write of a latin america from below the slave ship deck and from inside the mind of africa though many writers have adopted black literary models in their quest for a poetry of sources of fundamental human values jackson demonstrates that literature about blacks by blacks themselves is clearly separate from yet instrumental to these other works relating the vision of latin american blacks not only to other latin american writers but also to north american literary critics such as eugene goodheart and john gardner jackson stresses the universal power of resisting oppression and injustice through the language of humanism in the landmark 1991 edition of Feminisms Robyn Warhol and Diane Price Herndl assembled the most comprehensive collection of American and British feminist literary criticism ever to be published. In this revised edition the editors have updated the volume in keeping with the expanded parameters of feminist literary discourse with the inclusion of more than two dozen new essays along with a major reorganization of the sections in which they appear. Warhol and Price Herndl have again established the measure for representing the latest developments in the field of feminist literary theory, believing that the feminist movement can only move forward where difference commands attention, not dismissal or negativism. They have continued the original collection's mission of providing a multiplicity of perspectives and approaches. This anthology contains three new sections: Conflict, Gaze, and Practice, and includes more selections by and about women of color and lesbians aimed at academics and the general public alike. This collection is an indispensable guide to the range of practice on campus today in the field of feminist literary criticism.

The last half of the twentieth century has seen the emergence of literary theory as a new discipline. As with any body of scholarship, various schools of thought exist and sometimes conflict within it. Irina Makaryk has compiled a welcome guide to the field, accessible and jargon-free. The Encyclopedia of Contemporary Literary Theory provides lucid, concise explanations of myriad approaches to literature that have arisen over the past forty years. Some 170 scholars from around the world have contributed their expertise to this volume. Their work is organized into three parts. In Part I, forty evaluative essays examine the historical and cultural context out of which new schools of thought and approaches to literature arose. The essays also discuss the uses and limitations of the various schools and the key issues they address. Part II focuses on individual theorists; it provides a more detailed picture of the network of scholars, not always easily pigeonholed into the categories of Part I. This second section analyses the individual achievements as well as the influence of specific scholars and places them in a larger critical context. Part III deals with the vocabulary of literary theory; it identifies significant complex terms, places them in context, and explains their origins and use. Accessibility is a key feature of the work, by avoiding jargon, providing mini-bibliographies, and cross-referencing throughout. Makaryk has provided an indispensable tool for literary theorists and historians and for all scholars and students of contemporary criticism and culture.
