while exploring the black pyramid jonathan is confronted by the goddess isis she states that jonathan has become too proud she curses him with a three part curse first he will lose his best friend second he will lose his oldest friend and third he will lose his mentor jonathan tries to ignore the vision of isis but the curse works nathan is kidnapped and his best friend jonathan is at a loss for how to save him now jonathan and abdoullah will do anything to get their friend back they head to the canadian embassy in sudan and learn the men who took nathan are part of a terrorist gang this only brings more questions for jonathan what would sudanese terrorists want with nathan he wishes he could ask the god khepri for help but his powers only work in egypt not sudan jonathan and abdoullah enlist the help of friends and family to track the gang down and get nathan back something tells them nathan won't be the same when he returns and they don't know if they'll be equipped to help him. Jonathan and a counsellor help Nathan overcome his trauma. The curse continues and Nathan and Jonathan must rescue their friend Abdoullah from another squad of men with black triangles on their shoulders. Succeeding, all three of them go back to work for the Egyptologist, but the god Set has other plans and he implements the third curse. What will happen to Jonathan's mentor?

A collection of photographs, caricatures, and extracts from articles dealing with Israel's suppression of the Palestinian uprising argues that media coverage, particularly in the USA, has exaggerated the importance of this issue and distorted Israeli actions. pp 43-48 discuss the use of an antisemitic slant, particularly comparing Israeli soldiers with Nazis. In media criticism of Israel, examples of caricatures referring to the Holocaust or to Christian symbolism, e.g. the crucifixion of a Palestinian Arab or two Israeli soldiers barring Christ from Jerusalem, are declared as a closed military area. Notes that as a result of such accusations, Israeli embassies and Zionist and Jewish organizations have been flooded with hate mail.

During 2004, the human rights of ordinary men, women, and children were disregarded or grossly abused in every corner of the globe. Economic interests, political hypocrisy, and socially orchestrated discrimination continued to fan the flames of conflict around the world. The war on terror appeared more effective in eroding international human rights principles than in countering international terrorism. The millions of women who suffered gender-based violence in the home, in the community, or in war zones were largely ignored. The economic, social, and cultural rights of marginalized communities were almost entirely neglected.
