jamie schneiders life changed with one phone call in february of 2010 after months of sensing something was not right with her body jamie was diagnosed with stage iv ovarian cancer sending her on a relentless search for information about cancer and for ideas on how to survive the devastating news facing her diagnosis jamie already knew her life would never be the same whether she liked it or not she was now immersed in the dark side of cancer as this ancient rogue force claimed its space in her body and she became a stranger in an unfamiliar land jamie details how her relentless desire to understand created a voice of validation she walked through a shadowy world of cancer that left her somewhere between alive and dead now jamie exposes the harsh reality of her experience the reactions of her friends and family the treatment and devastating losses the yo yo of hope and hopelessness and the painful paradox of living while dying in who will make the pies when im gone jamie shares a powerful honest glimpse into her world as she struggles to make this new limited version of her life meaningful after a cancer diagnosis christine m korsgaard presents a compelling new view of humans moral relationships to the other animals she defends the claim that we are obligated to treat all sentient beings as what kant called ends in themselves drawing on a theory of the good derived from aristotle she offers an explanation of why animals are the sorts of beings for whom things can be good or bad she then turns to kant's argument for the value of humanity to show that rationality commits us to claiming the standing of ends in ourselves in two senses kant argued that as autonomous beings we claim to be ends in ourselves when we claim the standing to make laws for ourselves and each other korsgaard argues that as beings who have a good we also claim to be ends in ourselves when we take the things that are good for us to be good absolutely and so worthy of pursuit the first claim commits us to joining with other autonomous beings in relations of moral reciprocity the second claim commits us to treating the good of every sentient creature as something of absolute importance korsgaard argues that human beings are not more important than the other animals that our moral nature does not make us superior to the other animals and that our unique capacities do not make us better off than the other animals she criticizes the marginal cases argument and advances a new view of moral standing as attaching to the atemporal subjects of lives she criticizes kant's own view that our duties to animals are indirect and offers a non-utilitarian account of the relation between pleasure and the good she also addresses a number of directly practical questions whether we have the right to eat animals experiment on them make them work for us and fight in our wars and keep them as pets and how to understand the wrong that we do when we cause a species to go extinct
