in 2002 young fadime sahindal was brutally murdered by her own father she belonged to a family of kurdisch immigrants who had lived in sweden for almost two decades but fadime s relationship with a man outside of their community had deeply dishonored her family and only her death could remove the stain this abhorrent crime shocked the world and her name soon became a rallying cry in the struggle to combat so called honor killings unni wikan narrates Fadime's heartbreaking story through her own eloquent words along with the testimonies of her father, mother, and two sisters. What unfolds is a tale of courage and betrayal, loyalty and love, power and humiliation, and a nearly unfathomable clash of cultures. Despite enduring years of threats over her emancipated life, Fadime advocated compassion for her killer to the end, believing him to be trapped by an unyielding code of honor. Wikan puts this shocking event in context by analyzing similar honor killings throughout Europe, Canada, and the United States. She also examines the concept of honor in historical and cross-cultural depth, concluding that Islam itself is not to blame; indeed, honor killings occur across religious and ethnic traditions, but rather the way that many cultures have resolutely linked honor with violence. In honor of Fadime, this book holds profound and timely insights into conservative Kurdish culture. But ultimately, the heart of this powerful book is Fadime's courageous and tragic story, and Wikan's telling of it is riveting.

This volume gathers seventeen important contributions to a better understanding of the poetry, drama, and prose of the Golden Age. Theodore S. Beardsley, Jr., Francisco López de Soto, Everett W. Hesse, Margherita Morreale, and A. Valbuena Briones are among the contributors.

According to a long-standing astronomical tradition, the naming of minor planets in the solar system is the privilege of the discoverers. Contrary to most other kinds of celestial objects, which receive complex alpha-numerical designations, the names of minor planets often say more about the discoverers than about the object in question. There is a rich and colourful variety of ingenious names, from those of heavenly goddesses in the nineteenth century to the more prosaic and sometimes very specific names of observatories, towns, and mountains, computers, and persons given by present-day discoverers. Commission 20 of the International Astronomical Union, under whose auspices the naming of minor planets falls, has long been concerned with the need to establish a complete catalogue of these names, as well as of the interpretation of their meanings. For this purpose, a study group on the origin of minor planet names was set up at the time of the IAU General Assembly in Baltimore in August 1988. The working group immediately started to collect information about these matters from all available sources, including some earlier incomplete compilations made in the U.S. and in Europe, and also by personal interaction with living discoverers of minor planets.
