increasingly luxury brands join forces with the arts today yet these cross over collaborations do not constitute a homogeneous strategy but become manifest in manifold forms and appearances regardless of their growing practical relevance for the creation of contemporary luxury brands though the varied forms of luxury brand art collaborations lbacs have remained largely unexplored to date olga louisa kastner aims at

systematizing the dominating collaborative patterns between luxury brands and the arts she empirically derives distinct types of lbacs based on methodically developed attributes and a large number of real cases finally the author describes the main characteristics of the identified types and illustrates them by prototypical cases over the past decades collaborative initiatives between luxury brands and the art world have been increasing in number and relevance at first treated as a mere trend or as a marketing stunt in time luxury art collaborations have come to be acknowledged as one of the most effective ways luxury brands and artists can position themselves in today's market engaging with their clients and audiences this book sheds light on the socio cultural valence of luxury art collaborations the book explores luxury art collaborations in the context of postmodern consumption i.e. as a phenomenon deeply rooted in and emerging from the ways postmodern individuals value and consume objects contents and ideas more specifically the book covers how collaborations reflect the postmodern condition and liquid consumption practices hybrid temporary hyperreal the impact of luxury art collaborations on the evolution of luxury stores and museums and the emergence of hybrid spaces art fairs nomadic exhibitions pop up stores the temporal features of luxury art collaborations shortlived duration and fast paced tempo how luxury art collaborations reshuffle traditional status dynamics while drawing new boundaries of social distinction based on experience and access why luxury brands and creatives are redefining their conventional identities morphing into cultural entities and bricoleurs the book appeals to a wide range of readers from academics and students in art business luxury studies consumption behaviour to professionals in the luxury industry and the art world the book is also relevant to an international readership of non specialists interested in current social and cultural matters despite being one of the most traditional industries the luxury sector is highly dynamic and rapidly changing influenced by new ideas aspects fields technologies and generations one of such influences is the prevalence of digital technology and social media it challenges a number of major premises of luxury brands including exclusivity status authenticity and sensory experience this special issue of market and organizations explores luxury consumption and production in a digital and experiential era authors take a multidisciplinary and holistic perspective to explore the role of digital customer experience in rethinking the luxury industry in the future the objective is to advance knowledge on luxury in marketing and economy by bringing together
