according to their critics social scientists rarely ask the right questions and cannot provide satisfactory answers even to the questions they ask themselves social scientists often discuss the nature of knowledge in their fields with a notable lack of clarity explanation and experience in social science by robert brown dispels the confusion with cogency and wit it is a systematic sensible and lucid analysis of the nature of the explanations put forward by social scientists explanation making is first distinguished from describing and reporting and then classified into different types based on different kinds of information used the greater part of the book consists in discussion and examination of these types of explanation and their relationships in which the usefulness and limitations of each are assessed an extraordinary variety of examples from contemporary work in all the social sciences is used including the fields of sociology anthropology psychology history demography political science and economics the author makes it clear that good social explanation is possible and that it conforms to the requirements of all good scientific explanation explanation and experience in social science is of interest to the practicing scientist in fact it is a must have for any personal or public library with collections in the social sciences most studies in the philosophy of the sciences natural and social fall into two distinct groups those written by philosophers for other philosophers and those produced by scientists for their fellow scientists the aim of this book is to discuss questions of philosophical interest as they come to be imbedded in the work of social scientists robert brown received a degree in anthropology at the university of new mexico and did field studies among american indians before taking up graduate work in anthropology and philosophy at the university of chicago he has been at the australian national university as well as a fellow of its institute of advanced studies to develop theories and research designs requires concepts gary goertz provides advice on the construction and use of social science concepts and their use in case selection and theories he also cites examples from political science and sociology to illustrate the theoretical and practical issues of concept construction and use new approach demonstrating how social science can be successful focusing on context values and power this volume offers selected papers exploring issues arising from scientific discovery in the social sciences it features a range of disciplines including behavioural sciences computer science finance and statistics with an emphasis on philosophy the first of the three parts examines methods of social scientific discovery chapters investigate the nature of causal analysis philosophical issues around scale development in behavioural science research imagination in social scientific practice and relationships between paradigms of inquiry and scientific fraud the next part considers the practice of social science discovery chapters discuss the lack of genuine scientific discovery in finance where hypotheses concern the cheapness of securities the logic of scientific discovery in macroeconomics and the nature of that what discovery with the solidarity movement as a case study the final part covers formalising theories in social science chapters analyse the abstract model theory of institutions as a way of representing the structure of scientific theories the semi automatic generation of cognitive science theories and computational process models in the social sciences the volume offers a unique perspective on scientific discovery in the social sciences it will engage scholars and students with a multidisciplinary interest in the philosophy of science and social science featuring over 1 800 concise definitions of key terms the dictionary of the social sciences is the most comprehensive authoritative single volume work of its kind with coverage on the vocabularies of anthropology sociology political science economics human geography cultural studies and marxism the dictionary is an integrated easy to use a to z reference tool designed for students and non specialists it examines classic and contemporary scholarship including basic terms concepts theories schools of thought methodologies issues and controversies as a true dictionary it also contains concise jargon free definitions that explain the rich sometimes complex language of these increasingly visible fields george c homans addresses a number of controversial ideas to his colleagues in the social sciences as he sets about to ask how scientific these sciences are and to discuss their problems he believes in fact that they form a single science sharing the same subject matter and employing the same body of general explanatory principles and contrary to the opinion of most scholars he argues that they do not differ radically from the physical and biological sciences and should become even more like them particularly in their explanations or theories for although the findings of the social sciences are frequently exciting the work of organizing these findings remains largely undone this urbane clear eyed book is a challenge to accepted views of social science and a rallying call to its various branches for greater intellectual unity the book is a compilation of critically analyzed chapters on novel perspectives in literary studies the papers themes encompass indian literature and culture policy intervention societal reconstructs digital media eco criticism women s studies changing paradigms identification and multiculturalism modern viewpoints on the indian knowledge system in the literature presented in this volume demonstrate the dynamic interaction between tradition and modernity wherein traditional wisdom is not only preserved but actively utilized to address the intricacies of the contemporary world a fuller and more comprehensive story that respects the broad spectrum and richness of indian intellectual traditions is made possible by this intersection written by leading scholars from around the world the articles in this volume range from sin sufism and terrorism to theology in the 19th and 20th centuries vatican i and ii and the virgin birth this book discusses the growing interest in realism in social sciences of the twenty first century the first part of this book provides recent discussions on realism in philosophy the second part describes specific problems that have returned to realism in various fields of the social sciences such as economics cultural anthropology management science and statistics this book clarifies what kinds of movements are taking place and consequently the direction in which the social sciences are heading in the future readers would also find that there is great diversity in the way realism and reality are perceived and understood depending on the objectives and circumstances of each field of social science this suggests that rather than having a unified view stance of realism and reality it may be more meaningful to value the differences diversity and range itself therefore this book does not present a unified view of realism reality and actuality although the definitions of realism and reality may differ from chapter to chapter this represents a corner of the current state of the social sciences this book is unique in that it examines how the issues of realism and reality are viewed understood and dealt with in the various fields of social science instead of examining them by philosophers and philosophers of science this would clarify how philosophical discussions have been translated into the various fields of social science the social science encyclopedia first published in 1985 to acclaim from social scientists librarians and students was thoroughly revised in 1996 when reviewers began to describe it as a classic this third edition has been radically recast over half the entries are new or have been entirely rewritten and most of the balance have been substantially revised written by an international team of contributors the encyclopedia offers a global perspective on the key issues within the social sciences some 500 entries cover a variety of enduring and newly vital areas of study and research methods experts review theoretical debates from neo evolutionism and rational choice theory to poststructuralism and address the great questions that cut across the social sciences what is the influence of genes on behaviour what is the nature of consciousness and cognition what are the causes of poverty and wealth what are the roots of conflict wars revolutions and genocidal violence this authoritative reference work is aimed at anyone with a serious interest in contemporary academic thinking about the individual in society this compact volume covers the main developments in the social sciences since the second world war chapters on economics human geography political science psychology social anthropology and sociology will interest anyone wanting short accessible histories of those disciplines all written by experts in the relevant field they will also make it easy for readers to make comparisons between disciplines a final chapter proposes a blueprint for a history of the social sciences as a whole whereas most of the existing literature considers the social sciences in isolation from one other this volume shows that they have much in common for example they have responded to common problems using overlapping methods and cross disciplinary activities have been widespread the focus throughout the book is on societal pressures on knowledge production rather than just theoretical lineages this book is noteworthy because it is the first book that puts together histories of the main social sciences since world war ii each written by a discipline specialist enables the readers to realize that what they see as specific to their own discipline is in fact common to several contains a chapter that proposes a blueprint for a history of the social sciences as a whole
