argues how the notion of canon is used to authorize and maintain certain types of interpretive reasoning and the social institutions that employ them

the muslim conquest of the east in the seventh century entailed the subjugation of christians jews zoroastrians and others although much has been written about the status of non muslims in the islamic empire no previous works have examined how the rules applying to minorities were formulated milka levy rubin s remarkable book traces the emergence of these regulations from the first surrender agreements in the immediate aftermath of conquest to the formation of the canonic document called the pact of umar which was formalized under the early abbasids in the first half of the ninth century the study reveals that the conquered peoples themselves played a major role in the creation of these policies and that they were based on long standing traditions customs and institutions from earlier pre islamic cultures that originated in the worlds of both the conquerors and the conquered in its connections to roman byzantine and sasanian traditions the book will appeal to historians of europe as well as arabia and persia there is no explicit separation in islâmic law between public and private law but a special system has been used throughout history some scholars use the term muslim personal law which derived from the term al aḥwâl al shaḥṣiyyah in fiqh books but we prefer islâmic private law because muslim personal law indicates different legal meaning rules governing natural and legal persons in this book we will elaborate on islâmic rules relating to seven branches of private law personal law family law inheritance law obligations and contracts law property law commercial law and international private law we will explain or summarize islâmic rules in this book rather than my the author s personal views unfortunately there is a misunderstanding in western countries if any muslim scholar writes an article or book or grants an interview to a journalist to explain islâmic rules on any issue most westerners and especially people ignorant of islâmic law attribute these views to this scholar and holds him or her accountable for example a dutch journalist came to see me and asked about the issue of beating women in the qur an i explained the verse in the qur an and some interpretations by the prophet muhammed and muslim jurists the journalist did not understand what i explained and many people have accused me of advising muslims to beat their women this is absolutely false this is why we have to explain the following points the first point is this all the regulations in islâmic law are divided into two groups with respect to legal authority first rules that were based directly on the qur an and the sunnah and codified in books on fiqh islâmic law are called sharî ah rules shar i sharîf or sharî ah law these rules constitute 85 of the legal system the exclusive sources of these rules are the qur an the consensus of muslim jurists and true analogy qiyâs all explanations of these rules based completely on the qur an and the sunnah if any muslim scholar writes an article on beating women or polygamy he is responsible only for his her interpretations could any scholar be responsible for the religious ideology that he she explains are his her explanations to be considered propaganda for that religion or ideology absolutely not western authorities politicians and journalists should know that muslims hold that every machine has a manual if the manual is not followed when the machine is being used or operated it will break allah sent the qur an as the manual for human beings if a society does not take the qur an as its guide it is destined to have the same fate as a machine that is operated without the manual this is a basic creed for muslims a muslim cannot disagree with a explicit verse of the qur an second financial law land law ta zîr penalties arrangements concerning military law and administrative law in particular were based on the restricted legislative authority vested by sharî ah decrees and those jurisprudential decrees that were founded on secondary sources such as customs and traditions and the public good which fell under public law al siyâsah al shar iyyah sharî ah policies qânûn legal code and the like since these could not exceed the limits of sharî ah principles either they should not be viewed as a legal system outside of islâmic law the second point is that another classification of the islâmic rules should be explained many muslims and non muslims think that all injunctions in islâmic law such as polygamy and slavery were established by the qur an or the sunnah directly and islâmic law has been criticized severely for this the supposition here is false a further point that causes confusion is the view that there was no slavery male or female before islâm and that islâm introduced it there are however two kinds of injunctions in islâmic law 1 the first are injunctions that were laid down by islâm as principles for the first time since they did not exist in previous legal systems islâm established these principles such as zakâh waqf endowments and inheritance shares muslim scholars state that these are completely beneficial for humankind as a whole they also contain many instances of wisdom and purpose even if people are not aware of them 2 the second are injunctions that islâm did not introduce they already existed and islâm modified them that is islâm was not the first to set them down rather they were part of the law systems of other societies and were applied in a savage form since it would have been contrary to human nature to abolish injunctions of this kind suddenly and completely islâmic law modified them so that they were no longer barbaric but civilized slavery and polygamy are good examples of this 2 my third point is that i have explained theoretical rules of islâmic law in this book but have not neglected the practice aspect of islâmic private law we have focused on the practice of the ottoman state for sharî ah especially because the ottoman state practiced islâmic law completely and we have archival documents proving this claim the study of shar iyyah records shari iyyah sijilleri proves that in the ottoman state sharî ah rules were taken as the basis for personal law family law inheritance law jus obligationum law of commodities commercial law and all the branches of private law with respect to international private law the analysis of the two essential sources of information regarding ottoman law viz legal codices and shar iyyah records leads to the following irrefutable conclusion the ottoman legislative authorities only and solely codified administrative law with the exception of various subjects of constitutional law property law laws regarding state land military law financial law ta zîr punishment by way of reproof crimes in criminal law and their penalties and decrees regarding some exceptional issues of private law in issuing decrees on these it codified sharî ah principles if any since matters transferred to the rulers arrangements would be made in consideration of such secondary sources as the public good customs and traditions because it could never be alleged that a state s legal system consisted solely in the above mentioned subjects it could also not be claimed that the stated issues were arranged in disregard of shar i sharîf the explanations below will clarify this matter 3 the fourth point is that contemporary islâmic codes from different muslim countries were not neglected i have sometimes looked at the morroccan family code al mudawwana 4 egyptian laws that are the root of muslim middle eastern countries legal systems pakistan s law code which was based on the Ḥanafî law school we could say that in lebanon syria iraq kuwait jordan the effects of ottoman legal codes like majallah and family law continue the fifth point is as follows this book is based principally in the Ḥanafî school and ottoman practice nonetheless comparisons with other schools have been made especially with the mâlikî school which is the official school in morocco the united arab emirates and some other countries the shâfi î school which is the official school in indonesia and some other countries the Ḥanbalî school the official school in saudi arabia and some other countries and finally the ja farî school which is the official school especially in iran for comparison between schools this work has benefitted from some major works on islâmic law these works include m zarqa al fiqh al Islâmî fî thawbih al jadîd c i ii dimaşk 1395 1975 abd al

the aim of this book is to explore and analyze the islamic axioms foundation principles and values underpinning the field of governance in an attempt to construct the architectonics of a new systemic and dynamic theory and formulate the articulation of islamic governance this discursive and abstract rather than being an empirical exercise assumes to produce a good governance framework within its own formulation through a value shaped dynamic model according to maqasid al shari ah higher objective of shari ah by going beyond the narrow remit of classical and contemporary discussions produced on the topic which propose a certain institutional model of governance based on the classical juristic fiqh method through an exclusive analytical discursive approach in this book readers will find that islam as one of the major religions in the contemporary world with the claim of promising the underpinning principles and philosophical foundations of worldly affairs and institutions through a micro method of producing homoislamicus could contribute towards development of societies by establishing a unique model of governance from its explicit ontological worldview through a directed descriptive epistemology palestinian resistance organization of a nationalist movement presents the palestinian conflict as a consequence of the emergence of arab and jewish nationalism in the 19th century this book discusses the variables that intersect to produce resistance politics organized into 11 chapters this book begins with an overview of the increasing threat to international stability of middle eastern conflicts in terms of global impact and military destructiveness this text then examines the emergence of palestinian nationalism that is connected with the appearance and growth of the palestinian resistance movement other chapters consider the more complex relationships that developed over time between the various guerilla groups and established arab governments this book discusses as well the importance of the anm in providing an infrastructure of political and logistic support that extend throughout the arab world the final chapter deals with the concept of protracted social conflict this book is a valuable resource for politicians teachers and students saracen was a name employed by medieval writers to describe the muslims of syria and palestine and the arab rulers of north africa generally especially those conquerors of spain and sicily and the invaders of france later the name was applied to all those peoples against whom the crusades were preached and it is with these events that the term saracen is most popularly connected saladin proclaimed sultan in 1174 was the most prominent leader of this period and in many ways he can be said to typify the saracenic qualities courage wisdom magnanimity however the crusader period covered but a small part of saracen history which indeed can be said to extend from pre islamic arabia spain itself saw eight centuries of saracen rule in a short history of the saracens ameer ali examines every aspect of these extraordinary people few writers in the decades since this work was first published in 1899 have presented a more complete account for this reason both historians and students of the period will welcome its republication
