this book explores the history of the paranormal romance genre from its origins in the revisionist horror fiction of the 1970s via its emergence as a minor sub genre of romantic fiction in the early 1990s to its contemporary expansion in recent years into an often controversial genre of mainstream fiction tracing the genre from its roots in older gothic fiction written by and for women it explores the interconnected histories of gothic and romantic fiction from ann radcliffe and jane austen in the eighteenth century to buffy twilight true blood and the vampire diaries in the present day in doing so it investigates the extent to which the post twilight paranormal romance really does represent a break from older traditions of gothic fiction and just what it is about the genre that has made it so extraordinarily divisive captivating millions of readers whilst simultaneously infuriating and repelling so many others in this extraordinarily rich book madelyn gutwirth examines over one hundred prints and paintings dozens of texts and the work of a great many cultural critics in order to consider how gender politics were played out during a highly volatile era finding evidence of a crisis in gender relations during the eighteenth century she traces its evolution in the politics of rococo art demographic trends plans for the control of prostitution maternal nursing and wet nursing practices folklore the salon and in the theater of diderot and the polemics of rousseau gutwirth shows how a hostile gender ideology consigned women to a solely mothering role before the political revolution began and how women who struggled to participate in the nascent first french republic found themselves hobbled by the representational practices of the revolutionaries especially their use of allegory the artificiality and anachronism of the revolution's representation of women were ratified by the napoleonic code once depicted as erotic goddesses by the rococo then as goddesses of liberty marianne the dominant figuration of women around 1800 would become the dying waif as modern republics began their struggle toward legitimacy women's posture within them had been reduced by representation to feeble marginality gutwirth combines perspectives from literature history sociology demography psychology and art history and criticism in her delineation of this crisis in the twilight of the souls louis couperus delivers a poignant exploration of existentialism and psychological introspection set against the backdrop of turn of the century dutch society through lyrical prose and intricate characterizations couperus weaves a narrative that delves into the complexities of human emotion spiritual contemplation and the inevitable passage of time the book captures a period of profound change aligning with the themes of modernism that emerged in the late 19th and early 20th centuries reflecting the author's keen insight into the human condition and the dilemmas of modern life louis couperus a prominent figure in dutch literature is known for his ability to reflect not only the societal shifts of his time but also the intricate workings of the human psyche his diverse background blending influences from various artistic and philosophical movements informed his writing style which often examines the layers of consciousness and the conflicts between individual desires and societal expectations this unique perspective enriches the twilight of the souls allowing couperus to explore nuanced themes of decay and renewal for readers seeking a profound literary experience the twilight of the souls stands as an essential work that invites introspection and contemplation couperus's masterful ability to intertwine the philosophical with the poetic renders this novel a timeless exploration of the human soul making it a must read for those interested in existential themes and the intricacies of life's twilight
