a foreman set in his ways and a hardheaded journalist with a mind of her own can't abide by the conditions set forth in her father's will but they also can't abide with the notion of being in the same country much less the same ranch foreman Lewis Sutton's been like a son to Richard Reed except he's not his son so when Richard dies and Lewis has to contact his estranged daughters to come claim the ranch that Lewis loves he's left with a bitter taste in his mouth sure that the estranged princesses from the east coast will send a lawyer to sell the property Lewis finds himself in the unenviable position of knowing he'll lose the only home he's ever known Molly Reed's got a good life in Baltimore she's just taken a position that she's been pursuing for what seems like forever a journalist spot she's been trying to get that job for so long and she's written her heart out to get it she can't even use her own name she can't even conduct interviews she's had to ask her friend Cory Weston to go to the interviews and ask the questions she comes up with while she plays secretary and takes notes Cory's in love with her so he'd agree to just about anything she tells Cory she'll be back and she has to go settle some affairs at her father's ranch she doesn't know the conditions yet little do either Molly or Lewis know the conditions of the will are that Richard's daughters must live on the ranch for a year before doing anything with it then there are more conditions but the lawyer won't tell anyone what those are until the year is up

Sarah Bay Cheng offers an examination of Gertrude Stein's drama within the history of the theatrical and cinematic avant-garde

In the summer of 1980 Dave Foreman along with four conservationist colleagues founded the millenarian movement Earth First a provocative counterculture that ultimately hoped for the fall of industrial civilization the movement emerged in response to rapid commercial development of the American wilderness the Earth should come first was a doctrine that championed both biocentrism an emphasis on maintaining the Earth's full complement of species and biocentric equality the belief that all species are equal Martha Lee was successful in gaining extraordinary access to information about the movement as well as interviews with its members while following Earth First's development and methods she illustrates the inherent instability and the dangers associated with all millenarian movements this book will be of interest to environmentalists and those interested in political science and sociology the impact of St. Mark's Community Center and United Methodist Church on the city of New Orleans is immense their stories are dramatic reflections of the times but these stories are more than mere reflections because st mark s changed the picture leading the way into different understandings of what urban diversity could and should mean this book looks at the contributions of st mark s in particular the important role played by women especially deaconesses as the church confronted social issues through the rise of the social gospel movement and into the modern civil rights era ellen blue uses st mark s as a microcosm to tell a larger overlooked story about women in the methodist church and the sources of reform one of the few volumes on women s history within the church this book challenges the dominant narrative of the social gospel movement and its past st mark s and the social gospel begins by examining the period between 1895 and world war i chronicling the center s development from its early beginnings as a settlement house that served immigrants and documenting the early social gospel activities of methodist women in new orleans part ii explores the efforts of subsequent generations of women to further gender and racial equality between the 1920s and 1960 major topics addressed in this section include an examination of the deaconesses training in christian socialist economic theory and the church s response to the brown decision the third part focuses on the church s direct involvement in the school desegregation crisis of 1960 including an account of the pastor who broke the white boycott of a desegregated elementary school by taking his daughter back to class there part iv offers a brief look at the history of st mark s since 1965 shedding new light on an often neglected subject st mark s and the social gospel will be welcomed by scholars of religious history local history social history and women s studies
