this book investigates the various reasons behind the elevation of the memoir previously categorized as a marginalized form of life writing that denudes the private space of women especially in western asian countries such as iran through a comparative investigation of azar nafisi's reading lolita in tehran and marjane satrapi's persepolis 1 and 2 the book examines the way both narrative and graphic memoirs offer possibilities for iranian women to reclaim new territory transgress a post traumatic revolution and reconstruct a new model of womanhood that evades socio political and religious restrictions exile is conceptualized as empowering rather than a continued status of loss and disillusionment and the liminality of both women writers turns into a space of artistic production the book also resists the new orientalist scope within which reading lolita in tehran more than persepolis has been misread in order to reject these allegations this work sheds light on the representation of iranian women in reading lolita in tehran not as weak victims held captive by a totalitarian version of islam but as active participants rewriting their stories through the liberating power of the memoir the comparative approach between narrative and comic memoirs is a fruitful way of displaying similar experiences of disillusionment loss return and exile through different techniques the common thread uniting both memoirs is their zeal to reclaim iranian women's agency and strength over subservience and passivity charts the ways that woman artists have represented themselves and their life stories.

The past thirty years have witnessed a rapid growth in the number and variety of courses and programs that study life writing from literary, philosophical, psychological, and cultural perspectives. The field has evolved from the traditional approach that biographies and autobiographies were always about prominent people, historically significant persons, the nobility, celebrities, writers, to the conception of life writing as a genre of interrogation and revelation. The texts now studied include memoirs, testimonios, diaries, oral histories, genealogies, and group biographies, and extend to resources in the visual and plastic arts in films and videos, and on the internet. Today the tensions between canonical and emergent life writing texts between the famous and the formerly unrepresented are making the study of biography and autobiography a far more nuanced and multifarious activity. This volume in the MLA Series Options for Teaching builds on and complements earlier work on pedagogical issues in life writing studies. Over forty contributors from a broad range of educational institutions describe courses for every level of postsecondary instruction. Some writers draw heavily on literary and cultural theory; others share their assignments and weekly syllabi. Many essays grapple with texts that represent disability, illness, abuse, and depression, ethnic, sexual, and racial discrimination, crises, and catastrophes, witnessing and testimonials, human rights violations, and genocide. The classes described are taught in humanities, cultural studies, social science, and language departments and are located in, among other countries, the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, Germany, Eritrea, and South Africa.
