by emphasizing on the pamir region a comprehensive overview of path dependent and recent developments in a remote mountain region is provided in this book overall neglect in the mountainous periphery is contrasted by shifting the centre of attention to the pamirs situated at the interface between south and central asia from colonial times to now there has been a debate on grasping and locating the area here field work based contributions are collected to provide a variety of perspectives on the pamirs highlighting transformation and transition in post soviet societies as well as in afghanistan and pakistan the similar ecological environment across borders features the common ground while analyzing development processes in a set of case studies that aim at highlighting certain aspects of regional development based on extensive long term fieldwork in the borderlands of afghan and tajik badakhshan this book explores the importance of local leaders and local identity groups for the stability of a state s borders and ultimately for the stability of the state itself it shows how the implantation of formal institutional structures at the border a process supported by united nations and other international bodies can be counterproductive in that it may marginalise local leaders and alienate the local population thereby increasing overall instability the study considers how in this particular borderland where trafficking of illegal drugs weapons and people is rampant corrupt customs and border personnel and imperfect new institutional arrangements contributed to a complex mix of oppression hidden protest and subtle resistance which benefitted illicit traders and hindered much needed humanitarian work the book relates developments in this region to borderlands elsewhere especially new borders in the former soviet bloc and argues that local leaders and organisations should be given semi autonomy in co ordination with state border forces in order to increase stability and the acceptance of the state this book explores the unfolding of world history in a remote corner of central asia the region of badakhshan the history of this region has commonly been explored through the lens of the major superpowers who competed over its territory in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries including Britain, Russia and China. Here we are offered a comprehensive overview of the history of the Ismaili community in Tajikistan. Leadership and authority in Central Asia identifies traditional forms of religious authority within the network of religious functionaries at a range of levels and discusses the functions of Ismaili political leaders as they have evolved through time. Skilfully applying an interdisciplinary approach drawing on historical sources including unpublished materials and ethnographic fieldwork data collected through interviews and a perceptive analysis of political theories of leadership in communist and post-communist societies, this book challenges the ways religious and secular categories have been distinguished in recent scholarship. Developing a structural explanation for the survival and evolution of religious and political authorities of Badakhshani Ismailis in times of radical social and political upheaval, this book will be of interest to scholars of Muslim societies, political science and Central Asian studies.

What impact does 40 years of war, violence and military intervention have on a country and its people as the global war on terror now stretches into the 21st century with no clear end in sight? Identity and Politics in Modern Afghanistan collects the work of interdisciplinary scholars, aid workers and citizens to assess the impact of this prolonged conflict on Afghanistan. Nearly all of the people in Afghan society have been affected by persistent violent conflict. Identity and Politics in Modern Afghanistan focuses on social and political dynamics, issues of gender and the shifting relationships between tribal, sectarian and regional communities. Contributors consider topics ranging from masculinity among the Afghan Pashtun to services offered for the disabled and from Taliban extremism to the role of TV in the Afghan culture wars. Prioritizing the perspective and experiences of the people of Afghanistan, new insights are shared into the lives of those who are hoping to build a secure future on the rubble of a violent past.
