the fact that one would contemplate publication of a book such as this indicates both the maturity and the growth of activity that have taken place in the field of psycholinguistics over the past few decades more over the fact that psycholinguists and or scholars of the history of ideas are interested in the history of their subject clearly demonstrates that much has been accomplished and the time is indeed ripe for the reassess ment of whence we have come in addition perhaps this interest in our historical past suggests that psycholinguistics is at a critical stage in its development there are many scholars who believe that this critical stage manifests itself primarily in a search for a new paradigm it would seem only reasonable to suggest that when members of a profession are search ing for something new more than likely they will take time to reflect on the past in the hope that it will facilitate the fulfillment of their quest this book as such reflects a wide ranging search for historical roots over a millenium of research in the psychology of language and thought furthermore it also reflects an attempt to open the context by introducing the broader perspectives of the history of ideas and the history of science together with their reassessment of the method of science motivated from within psychology itself the aim of the following dissertation is an analysis of lewis carroll s alice in wonderland and through the looking glass in regard to the uncanny and its relation to language for the purpose of the study on the psychoanalytical concept of the uncanny in connection with linguistic theory the most important theories have been evaluated in the first chapter of the dissertation titled the concept of the uncanny and its relation to language afterwards the chapter the uncanny and language in lewis carroll s alice in wonderland and through the looking glass applies the acquired theoretical framework to the two selected texts in order to understand the different ways in which carroll manipulates language in order to create an uncanny atmosphere
