for courses in world history i to 1500 and world history ii since 1500 brief yet detailed this text provides a thoughtful history of human civilizations while maintaining a balance between the western world and the rest of global civilization it covers the general intellectual and material history of human societies and cultures that have left some kind of written and or archeological record behind the combined edition is organized in a rough chronological order by cultural civilization and or geographical areas the second in a two volume anthology of primary secondary and visual sources this reader provides a broad introduction to the evolution of world civilizations from ancient history to 1700 and gives students insight into how historians use and interpret evidence in an effort to broaden their understanding of civilizations around the world a wide selection of documents images maps and charts is presented along with chapter opening timelines source introductions points for consideration and questions designed to clarify the material and stimulate discussion the reader is organized chronologically but also provides an alternate topical table of contents which allows instructors and students to compare sources across cultures and time periods a new feature to this edition using this book assists students in fully analyzing sources and context globalization and civilizations challenges established assumptions about the nature of civilizations and the supposed inevitability of the conflict between the islamic and western worlds uniquely this edited book critically interrogates the concept of civilization by asking whether it is still valid in the globalized world economy of the twenty first century the first half of the book provides an historical and theoretical context to understand the idea of civilization in political science and demonstrates how the various social economic political and cultural processes of globalization have radically altered perceptions of civilization the second half of the book looks particularly at non western examples of the interaction between globalization and civilization and includes case studies on the arab world islam china india and europe about 5 000 years ago the first urban societies developed laying the foundations for the first civilizations nearly all civilizations share the same few features they have abundant food surpluses contained cities political bureaucracies armies defined religious and social hierarchies and long distance trading ancient egyptian culture flourished between c 5500 bce with the rise of technology as evidenced in the glass work of faience and 30 bce with the death of cleopatra vii the last ptolemaic ruler of egypt it is famous today for the great monuments which celebrated the triumphs of the rulers and honored the gods of the land the culture is often misunderstood as having been obsessed with death but had this been so it is unlikely it would have made the significant impression it did on other ancient cultures such as greece and rome neolithic means e new stone e even though agriculture was the crowning achievement of the period civilizations started out small agriculture at first tended to tie only small groups together these groups also all settled along rivers important as a reliable and predictable source of water as time passed families usually worked the same plot of land over successive generations leading to the concept of ownership ancient mortars and grinding tools unearthed in a large mound in the zagros mountains of iran reveal that people were grinding wheat and barley about 11 000 years ago grass pea wild wheat wild barley and lentils were found throughout the site including some of the earliest known samples this was much further east than most sites known for early agriculture this book furnishes with utmost facility to all classes of readers the needed information on ancient civilization the unusual variety of the subject makes this a work of endless fascination designed for introductory level survey courses in world history the primary goal of world civilizations is to present a truly global history from the development of agriculture and herding to the present using a unique periodization this book divides the main periods of human history according to changes in the nature and extent of global contacts this global world history text emphasizes the major stages in the interactions among different peoples and societies while at the same time assessing the development of major societies encompassing social and cultural as well as political and economic history the book examines key civilizations in world history world civilizations balances this discussion of independent developments in the world s major civilizations with comparative analysis of the results of global contact robin w winks placed particular emphasis on those developments that most directly explain the nature of the modern world social diffusion group and national consciousness technological change religious identities those aspects of intellectual history that have contributed most to our current dilemmas in turn this means that there is more in world civilization a brief history about nationalism imperialism or ethnic identities than there is about monarchies feudalism or diplomacy the result of the strategic and intellectual decisions made with respect to this textbook is that its proportions are not the customary ones particular emphasis is placed on the early origins of civilizations on greece and rome and on the period of the so called barbarian invasions because it is by studying these periods that students may best learn how societies are formed particular emphasis is also placed on the period from the french revolution on for it is the events of the last two hundred years that have most closely shaped our present condition this book can be read straight through and in its entirety as an interpretive statement about western history written by a person who knew a good bit about non western history and who could thus throw into perspective the unusual the commonplace and the comparable in that sector of history conventionally labeled western the text draws on over thirty five years of discovering in the classroom what students themselves wish to ask about the past rather than what a body of scholars may have concluded they should wish to ask though this book is largely about western civilization it is also about world civilizations for from the eighteenth century forward and in many aspects of life much earlier the non west has interacted with the west in such a way as to make it virtually impossible to separate one from the other when dealing at this level of generalization as a teacher of the history of exploration and discovery of imperialism and decolonizati examines all the world's civilizations including those in the western tradition but also those civilizations sometimes neglected in world history texts maintaining a focus on social history explores gender class economic and intellectual issues while examining patterns of inequality and human agency throughout world history instructors of world civilization surveys that prefer a global account of history for courses in world history world civilization or western civilization at the freshman sophomore undergraduate level this illuminating anthology examines significant documents that will acquaint students with major world civilizations and help them understand the historical forces and ideas that have shaped the world in which they live this two volume reader spans the world and its history from the third millennium b c to the late 20th century the illuminating anthology examines significant documents that will acquaint students with major world civilizations and help them understand the historical forces and ideas that have shaped the world in which they live selections in this reader include documents that represent people's attitudes toward history literature science philosophy religion politics economics law biography and mythology and which are either of major significance to that particular civilization during their period of history or give substantial insights into the nature of the society from which they sprang informative introductions to each of the six sections as well as individual readings summarize the world events of a particular period to facilitate a more meaningful understanding and to give students added insight on a document's origin and author new to this edition pre reading questions for each selection to help students identify the critical themes within each document integrative questions at the end of each section that prompt students to compare and contrast sources from within a particular culture or across cultures more emphasis on non western civilizations making the text more global in its approach world history explores the human past around the globe to help us understand the world we live in today it seeks to identify how major forces have developed over time like patterns of migration or world trade it explores the cultures and political institutions of different regions to help explain commonalities and differences world history builds on a growing amount of historical scholarship some of which has truly altered the picture of the past it involves a rich array of stories and examples of human variety intriguing in themselves it helps develop skills that are vital not just to the history classroom but to effective operation in a global society skills like comparing different societies appreciating various viewpoints identifying big changes and continuities in the human experience always however it uses the past as a prologue to the present world historians argue that no one society past or present can be understood without reference to other societies and to larger global forces they argue even more vigorously that the present which clearly involves relationships that embrace the whole world cannot be grasped without a sense of the global historical record from its first edition world civilizations the global experience has aimed at capturing a truly global approach by discussing and comparing major societies and focusing on their interactions the goal is to present a clear factual framework while stimulating analysis about global contacts regional patterns and the whole process of change and continuity on a world stage this kind of world history focused on the development over time of the forces that shape the world today helps students make sense of the present and prepare to meet the challenges of the future it is hard to imagine a more important topic embracing the whole world's history obviously requires selectivity and explicit points of emphasis this text gains coherence through decisions about time about place and about topic in all three cases the book encourages analysis relating facts to vital issues of interpretation through analysis and interpretation students become active engaged learners rather than serving as passive vessels for torrents of historical facts underpinning analysis the issues of time place and topic are the three keys to an intelligible global past for undergraduate level world civilization or world history courses this comprehensive accessible survey of world history has been extensively revised to provide an even more global and comparative perspective on the events and processes that have shaped our increasingly interdependent world written by leading scholars in their respective fields heritage of world civilizations 7 e combines unusually strong and thorough coverage of the unique heritage of asian african islamic western and american civilizations while highlighting the role of the world s great religious and philosophical traditions
