cities are the future in the past two decades a global urban revolution has taken place mainly in the south the mega cities of the developing world are home to over 10 million people each and even smaller cities are experiencing unprecedented population surges the problems surrounding this influx of people slums poverty unemployment and lack of governance have been well documented this book is a powerful indictment of the current consensus on how to deal with these challenges pieterse argues that the current shelter for all and urban good governance policies treat only the symptoms not the causes of the problem instead he claims there is an urgent need to reinvigorate civil society in these cities to encourage radical democracy economic resilience social resistance and environmental sustainability folded into the everyday concerns of marginalised people providing a dynamic picture of a cosmopolitan urban citizenship this book is an essential guide to one of the new century s greatest challenges the world s population is rapidly urbanizing but the affluence and development often associated with cities are far from equitably or sustainably distributed where it was once taken for granted that responsibility for urban development lay with the state increasingly the emphasis has shifted to market driven and public private sector initiatives which can marginalize the intended beneficiaries the urban poor from decision making and implementation this text outlines the essential conditions for effective urban planning and management by placing bottom up community initiatives at the heart of the push for equitable and sustainable development in cities crucially the state must engage with both the market and civil society in pursuit of sustainable cities presenting a wide ranging selection of case studies in rapidly urbanizing and transitional countries from the poorest parts of africa and asia to the relatively developed united kingdom the authors describe and analyze innovations in how globally disadvantaged urban communities can be engaged in improving their living environments urbanization is one of the most important phenomena in economic development in the past three decades asian urban populations expanded by almost one billion a figure expected to double in the next three decades clearly both the scale and pace of urbanization in asia is unprecedented in human history and will dominate the global urbanization landscape asia s urbanization in turn is dominated by what is happening in china and india the two most populous fastest growing economies in the world cities of dragons and elephants urbanization and urban development in china and india aims at addressing the two most fundamental issues of urbanization why and where to urbanize contributed by a team of top experts from both countries it uses original research to explore both the speed and scale of urbanization and urban systems or spatial distribution of urbanities in different sized citites it examines various drivers of urbanization alongside the benefits and costs and the role of markets governments and ngos cities of dragons and elephants presents evidence based policy suggestions regarding the labor market the land and housing market fdi and the capital market education environment poverty and inequality it uses the similarities between india and china to draw conclusions and implications of enormous relevance to many governments and institutions in asia and beyond as we enter a mundus urbano urban issues become even more central to many professions related to planning this situation not only reinforces long identified challenges but also generates new ones for which planners from all different fields of inquiry have to re think their own practice this book gathers works that reflect recent challenges examined by the fresh eyes of young professionals brought together to stretch conventions towards an innovative approach to urban studies the reader will find world wide as well as more localised study cases in four chapters that embed the most up to date questions permeating the field sociocultural production and urban space urban governance and social challenges contemporary planning and cooperating in the south and sustainable urban infrastructure each of these chapters is introduced by prominent authors such as prof amos rapoport phd jaqueline britto pólvora prof guiqing yang and cor dijkgraaf who have been of great importance during the course of this advanced master studies this book takes an international perspective on the links between land use development and transport and present the latest thinking the theory and practice of these links
