the sage handbook of conflict communication integrating theory research and practice is the first resource to synthesize key theories research and practices of conflict communication in a variety of contexts editors john oetzel and stella ting toomey as well as expert researchers in the field emphasize constructive conflict management from a communication perspective which places primacy in the message as the focus of conflict research and practice an understanding of the complex consequences of social processes and social design activities necessitates a holistic systemic perspective systematised in the classic structural functional research tradition which is presented in functionalist construction work in social science in contrast to fragmented discussions of functionalism and functional analyses the approach here covers a span ranging from ontological epistemological and primarily methodological aspects of functionalism the functionalist tradition in social science is placed in a historic context and problematised from a philosophy of science perspective unique here is a detailed account of four classic functionalist research programmes with a discussion of functionalism not primarily as a worldview but as systematic knowledge generating research strategies in addition to descriptive and causal questions the importance of a further research question is demonstrated i e the identification of crucial problems of social organisation functionalist research strategies and functional analysis are of interest for social scientists and students in sociology political science and social anthropology moreover the book is relevant for researchers and students of philosophy of science and social science methodology the authors are proud sponsors of the 2020 sage keith roberts teaching innovations award enabling graduate students and early career faculty to attend the annual asa pre conference teaching and learning workshop now with sage publishing and co authored by one of the foremost authorities on sociological theory the tenth edition of sociological theory by george ritzer and jeffrey stepnisky gives readers a comprehensive overview of the major theorists and schools of sociological thought from sociology s origins through the early 21st century key theories are integrated with biographical sketches of theorists and are placed in their historical and intellectual context this text helps students better understand the original works of classical and contemporary theorists and enables them to compare and contrast the latest substantive concepts this series will include monographs and collections of studies devoted to the investigation and exploration of knowledge information and data processing systems of all kinds no matter whether human other animal or machine its scope is intended to span the full range of interests from classical problems in the philosophy of mind and philosophical psychology through issues in cognitive psychology and sociobiology concerning the mental capabilities of other species to ideas related to artificial intelligence and to computer science while primary emphasis will be placed upon theoretical conceptual and epistemological aspects of these problems and domains empirical experimental and methodological studies will also appear from time to time few areas of inquiry have generated as much interest and enthusiasm in recent times as has the discipline known as evolutionary psychology but its pretensions and its accomplishments have not always been properly understood this collection brings together important work in psychology anthropology and the philosophy of science that contributes toward that goal especially by emphasizing the role of natural selection and sexual selection as crucial factors in the evolution of cognitive mechanisms for information processing the methodological studies that are presented here are bound to enhance appreciation for the scope and limits of this fascinating domain the editor has produced a fascinating volume that should appeal to a broad and diverse audience thinking about the teaching of thinking provides an accessible and comprehensive introduction to feuerstein s theory of mediated learning experience and its related tools and programmes it details up to date international and new zealand research on the feuerstein approach which reflects the current issues in the teaching of thinking the book begins by defining what is meant by the teaching of thinking and provides an easy to understand explanation of the feuerstein method and its value for children with learning challenges it champions a whole school approach to the teaching of thinking and details the practical tools and programmes developed by feuerstein such as instrumental enrichment and the learning propensity assessment device to aid in its implementation it also recognises the key importance of cultural factors in the teaching of thinking bringing together the author's considerable research experience using the feuerstein method in the multicultural new zealand context with her extensive knowledge of international feuerstein research this book provides a user friendly and unique coverage of the feuerstein method for researchers and postgraduate students researching and working in educational psychology it will also be of great value for teachers and parents looking to understand and decide on implementation of the feuerstein approach in their schools ever since darwin psychiatrists have been tempted to put evolutionary theory to use in their efforts to understand and explain mental disorders varying in success scope and scientific rigour these attempts have often caught the attention of philosophers there are many studies about how the philosophy of psychiatry has been informed by twentieth century continental philosophy in focusing on topics such as embodiment narrativity and gender as well as analytic philosophy in focusing on more conceptual issues thus far however there are simply no studies about how philosophical issues in psychiatric theory and practice can be and have been informed by evolutionary theory maladapting minds explores the relationship between evolutionary theory and philosophy of psychiatry in particular it discusses a number of reasons why philosophers of psychiatry should take an interest in evolutionary explanations of mental disorders and more generally in evolutionary thinking the many chapters deal with evolutionary accounts of various mental disorders including phobias fetishism developmental disorders depression autism spectrum disorders and schizophrenia written by both world class philosophers psychologists and evolutionary psychiatrists this volume illustrates that many debates in contemporary philosophy of psychiatry are profoundly influenced by evolutionary approaches to mental disorders in doing so it represents the very first attempts to critically explore the interface between evolutionary theory and philosophy of psychiatry it is important reading for psychiatrists philosophers of mind and evolutionary psychologists
