when african american intellectuals announced the birth of the new negro around the turn of the twentieth century they were attempting through a bold act of renaming to change the way blacks were depicted and perceived in america by challenging stereotypes of the old negro and declaring that the new negro was capable of high achievement black writers tried to revolutionize how whites viewed blacks and how blacks viewed themselves nothing less than a strategy to re create the public face of the race the new negro became a dominant figure of racial uplift between reconstruction and world war ii as well as a central idea of the harlem or new negro renaissance edited by henry louis gates jr and gene andrew jarrett the new negro collects more than one hundred canonical and lesser known essays published between 1892 and 1938 that examine the issues of race and representation in african american culture these readings by writers including w e b du bois paul laurence dunbar alain locke carl van vechten zora neale hurston and richard wright discuss the trope of the new negro and the milieu in which this figure existed from almost every conceivable angle political essays are joined by essays on african american fiction poetry drama music painting and sculpture more than fascinating historical documents these essays remain essential to the way african american identity and history are still understood today pulitzer prize winning biographer edits a collection of alain locke s influential essays on the importance of the black artist and the black imagination a penguin classic for months the philosopher alain locke wrestled with the idea of the negro as america s most vexing problem he asked how shall negroes think of themselves as he considered the new crop of poets novelists and short story writers who in 1924 wrote about their experiences as black people in america he did not want to frame harlem and black writing as yet another protest against racism nor did he want to focus on the sociological perspective on the negro problem and harlem as a site of crime poverty and dysfunction he wanted to find new language and a new way for black people to think of themselves the essays and articles collected in this volume by locke s pulitzer prize winning biographer are the result of that new attitude and the struggle to instill the new negro aesthetics as stewart calls it here into the mind of the twentieth century to be a new negro poet novelist actor musician dancer or filmmaker was to commit oneself to an arc of self discovery of what and who the negro was would be without fear that one would disappoint the white or black bystander in committing to that path locke asserted one would uncover a being in the world that was rich and bountiful in its creative possibilities if black people could turn off the noise of racism and see themselves for who they really are a world of creative people who have transformed powerfully and perpetually the culture of wherever history or social forces landed them in the midst of vast cultural and political shifts in the early twentieth century politicians and cultural observers variously hailed and decried the rise of the new negro this phenomenon was most clearly manifest in the united states through the outpouring of black arts and letters and social commentary known as the harlem renaissance what is less known is how far afield of harlem that renaissance flourished how much the new negro movement was actually just one part of a collective explosion of political protest cultural expression and intellectual debate all over the world in this volume the harlem renaissance escapes from new york into its proper global context these essays recover the broader new negro experience as social movements popular cultures and public behavior spanned the globe from new york to new orleans from paris to the philippines and beyond escape from new york does not so much map the many sites of this early twentieth century black internationalism as it draws attention to how new negroes and their global allies already lived resituating the harlem renaissance the book stresses the need for scholarship to catch up with the historical reality of the new negro experience this more comprehensive vision serves as a lens through which to better understand capitalist developments imperial expansions and the formation of brave new worlds in the early twentieth century contributors anastasia curwood vanderbilt u frank a gurdy u of texas at austin claudrena harold u of virginia jeannette eileen jones u of nebraska lincoln andrew w kahrl marquette u shannon king college of wooster charlie lester thabiti lewis washington state u vancouver treva lindsey u of missouri columbia david luis brown claremont graduate u emily lutenski saint louis u mark anthony neal duke u yuichiro onishi u of minnesota twin cities theresa runstedtler u at buffalo suny t denean sharpley whiting vanderbilt u michelle stephens rutgers u new brunswick jennifer m wilks u of texas at austin chad williams brandeis u
