a fascinating exploration of human history over the last ten thousand years the origins of human society traces the development of human culture from its origins over 2 million years ago to the emergence of literate civilization in addition to a global coverage of prehistoric life the book pays specific attention to the origins and dispersal of anatomically modern humans the development of symbolic expression the transition from mobile foraging bands to sedentary households early agriculture and its consequences the emergence of social differentiation and hereditary ranking and the prehistoric roots of ancient states and empires the blackwell history of the world series the goal of this ambitious series is to provide an accessible source of knowledge about the entire human past for every curious person in every part of the world it will comprise some two dozen volumes of which some provide synoptic views of the history of particular regions while others consider the world as a whole during a particular period of time the volumes are narrative in form giving balanced attention to social and cultural history in the broadest sense as well as to institutional development and political change each provides a systematic account of a very large subject but they are also both imaginative and interpretative the series is intended to be accessible to the widest possible readership and the accessibility of its volumes is matched by the style of presentation and production this book is a study of modern politics from a socialist and left wing perspective as a collection of essays on political ideas it presents an analysis of the crisis of our times through examining the various crises and problems which define modern society it considers individual political aspects of the contemporary problems of capitalist politics ranging from economic crisis to social crisis from imperialism to the environmental crisis as such it serves to outline a solid argument for a better politics today the politics of socialism and democratic socialism our history from the stone age to today this book tells what we know of man how he first lived how he worked with other men what kinds of houses he built what tools he made and how he formed a government under which to live so we learn of the activities of men in the past and what they have passed on to us in this way we may become acquainted with the different stages in the process which we call civilization the present trend of specialization in study and research has brought about widely differentiated courses of study in schools and a large number of books devoted to special subjects each course of study and each book must necessarily represent but a fragment of the subject this method of intensified study is to be commended indeed it is essential to the development of scientific truth those persons who can read only a limited number of books and those students who can take only a limited number of courses of study need books which present a connected survey of the movement of social progress as a whole and which blaze a trail through the accumulation of learning and give an adequate perspective of human achievement it is hoped then that this book will form the basis of a course of reading or study that will give the picture in small compass of this most fascinating subject if it serves its purpose well it will be the introduction to more special study in particular fields or periods that the story of this book may be always related more closely with the knowledge and experience of the individual reader questions and problems have been added at the conclusion of each chapter which may be used as subjects for discussion or topics for themes for those who wish to pursue some particular phase of the subject a brief list of books has been selected which may profitably be read more intensively this companion provides a wide ranging and up to date overview of the conceptual issues that history as a discipline and mode of thought gives rise to the book offers both historical and systematic treatments of these issues as well as addressing their contemporary relevance structured in three parts modes and schools of historical thought epistemology and metaphysics of history and issues and challenges in historical theory it offers the reader a wide scope and expert treatment of each topic in this vibrant field that can be read in any order an international team of experts both discuss the basis of their topic and present their own view offering the reader a cutting edge contribution while ensuring their chapters are of interest to both students and specialists in the field of historical theory and engaging with the very nature of historical thought the metaphysics of historical existence the politics of history writing and the intelligibility of the historical process the volume is an indispensable companion to the study of history and essential reading for anyone interested in the reflection on the nature of history and our historical existence debate rages within the catholic church about the ethics of war and peace but the simple question of why wars begin is too often neglected catholics assumptions about the causes of conflict are almost always drawn uncritically from international relations theory a field dominated by liberalism realism and marxism which is not always consistent with catholic theology in the origins of war matthew a shadle examines several sources to better understand why war happens his retrieval of biblical literature and the teachings of figures from church tradition sets the course for the book shadle then explores the growing awareness of historical consciousness within the catholic tradition the way beliefs and actions are shaped by time place and culture he examines the work of contemporary catholic thinkers like pope john paul ii jacques maritain john courtney murray dorothy day brian hehir and george weigel in the constructive part of the book shadle analyzes the movement within international relations theory known as constructivism which proposes that war is largely governed by a set of socially constructed and cultural influences constructivism shadle claims presents a way of interpreting international politics that is highly amenable to a catholic worldview and can provide a new direction for the christian vocation of peacemaking
